

To whom it may concern:

As a UCLA business professor, I admire a competent businessman. Hugh Borax is that true professional.

During my recent ordeal in acquiring a home, Hugh promised me that he would be full-service in every way. He was, indeed. He always promptly returned calls during the day, nights, and weekends.....even while he was on vacation.

His efforts, diligence, and his strategic insights were always dead-on. His honesty and high ethics gave me comfort that his advice had my best interests, not his, always in mind. Plus, he's a nice guy. You would be well-served to utilize the talents of Hugh Borax.

Regards,

Gordon Klein, J.D., C.P.A.
Lecturer in Accounting and Entrepreneurship
UCLA-Anderson School